DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Specification

2. The lengthy specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.
3. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: the limitation of "only one alignment film is applied to only one of the first substrate and the second substrate" is not disclosed in the specification.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

Art Unit: 2871

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

5. Claims 1-3, 6-7 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C 102(e) as being anticipated by Takatori et al., US Patent No. 6,812,986.

The above claims are anticipated by Takatori et al figure 23A which disclose a liquid crystal display (LCD) device comprising:

- . a first substrate (41) having a color filter (42);
- . a second substrate (51) having electrodes (52), an insulating film (59) and a rubbing alignment layer (53), wherein the alignment layer can be formed on one substrate only (see Example 16, col. 62, ln. 38)

Note: since the method of manufacturing the device is merely a list of forming each component and each component must be formed to make the device, the method of manufacturing would be inherent to the device

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 4-5 and 8-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takatori et al., US Patent No. 6,812,986, in view of Gillian et al., US Patent No. 5,861,931.

Takatori et al. disclose the claimed invention as described except for the based material for the alignment layer (polyethylene or polystyrene) as well as the alignment treatment method (lithographic, light treatment). Gillian et al. do disclose an alignment layer (10) can be alternatively formed by rubbing and/or light and/or lithographic (col. 3, lines 36-51). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention was made to employ the Takatori et al. alignment by rubbing and/or light and/or lithographic (with corresponding material), since it is a common practice in the LCD art to form a structure thereon (e.g., pretilt angle).

Double Patenting

8. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

9. Claim 10 is provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 10 of copending Application No.

Art Unit: 2871

10/805,472. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both applications disclose an IPS LCD in which only one alignment film is applied to only one of the first substrate and the second substrate.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
